

JOIN THE GRI COMMUNITY: THE GLOBAL CATALYST FOR SUSTAINABLE CHANGE

Large companies can now benefit from GRI's Community with the Group Membership

There are costs and benefits associated with sustainability reporting. For large businesses, one of the costs is linking up sustainability strategy, practice, and communications across countries, regions, and groups of reporting companies.

The GRI Community Group Membership is specially designed for large companies that produce multiple reports across subsidiaries or territories. The group membership enables large companies to maximize the positioning and exposure of a group of GRI community members - and may reduce the costs of their reporting practice and GRI Community participation.

For an annual payment, one lead company and up to five subsidiaries can access the same benefits, share the same GRI and reporting-related information, and boost the profile of sustainability commitments across a whole business group.
